

I Will Be There

When the sugar hits the fan
You need someone in your corner
Who even when you're losing
Cheers like you're the top performer.
Someone who stands beside you
Even if they're not holding your hand
Who you can talk to without words
Because they understand.
They don't tell you not to cry
They kiss away your tears like a tissue
You never have to call them
Because they're always with you
And you're never an issue.
They put an arm around you
A firm hand on your shoulder
Without checking the forecast
They stay 'til the storm is over.
So when the sugar hits the fan
That someone in your corner
Who even when you're losing
Cheers like you're the top performer
Will be me. Loyal to the end
On me you can depend
Because even when others run scared
When the sugar hits the fan
I will be there.
